DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 3-4, 6-7, 11-24, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dillon et al. [US 4,758,924].

Regarding claims 1, 13-15, Dillon et al. disclose a housing for an electronic system (figures 1 and 2a-b), comprising:

- an interface (28, 29 or 30) opening operable to expose an interface connector (figure 2a) that is mounted to an interface held by the housing and coupled to circuitry (33) disposed within the housing; and
- a passage (17 or 18) having a first opening (an opening from the left side) adjacent to the interface opening, having a second opening (an opening far end from the right side) and a third opening (an opening on top of the passage between the first and second openings), the passage being operable to hold a communication medium (37) that includes a communication connector attached to the interface connector and that extends from the interface connector through the first opening and the second opening (figures 2a, 2b).

Art Unit: 2841

Regarding claim 3, Dillon et al. further disclose interface opening being mounting on a back of the housing and the passage being mounted on top of the housing (figure 2a).

Regarding claim 4, Dillon et al. disclose wherein the third opening is adjacent the second opening (figure 2a).

Regarding claims 6-7, Dillon et al. further disclose the passage being substantially straight/rectangular (figures 2a, 2b).

Regarding claim 11, Dillon et al. further disclose the housing comprising a storage compartment (11a) and the second opening opens to the storage compartment (figure 2a, 2b).

Regarding claim 12, Dillon et al. disclose the housing further comprising a storage compartment, a top covering the passage (figure 1) and the third opening is located on the top, and the second opening opens to the storage compartment (figures 2a, 2b).

Regarding claim 21, Dillon et al. disclose therein the third opening opens to an environment outside the housing (figures 1, 2a-b).

Regarding claim 22, Dillon et al. disclose wherein the communication medium extends through the interface opening (figures 2a, 2b).

Regarding claims 16-20 and 23-24, the claimed method steps are inherent in the product structure.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 5 and 8-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dillon et al. in view of Inoue [US 6,072,981].

Regarding claim 5, Dillon et al. disclose the third opening being adjacent the second opening (figure 2a) and the housing including a top (19) covering the passage (figure 1).

Dillon et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for the passage having a cap covered the third opening.

Inoue discloses a passage (figure 1) including first, second and third openings (2a, 3a and 4a), wherein the third opening is covered by a cap (30, 31, figure 1).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include a cap on the passage of Dillon et al., as suggested by Inoue, for the purpose of protecting communication cables therein the passage.

Regarding claims 8-9, Dillon et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for an area of the first opening is different with an area of the second opening.

Inoue discloses an area of the first opening (2a) is different area of the second opening (3a, figure 1).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the areas of the first and second openings being different in Dillon et al., in order to provide a difference number of cables to access therein the passage.

5. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dillon et al. in view of Beavers [US 5,896,268].

Regarding claim 10, Dillon et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for the passage formed tapers.

Beavers discloses an electronic system (figure 2) having a passage (12) formed tapers.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the passage design of Beavers for the passage of Dillon et al., for the purpose of reducing volume of the electronic system.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 3-24 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
